Summertime in Lee, New Hampshire

News Articles Reprinted from

The Newmarket Advertiser August 1891

August 15, 1891:

LEE.

The grove dances are to be discontinued.

The grangers had a lovely day for their big picnic, of which more anon.

The shoe manufactory at Wadley's will start up again next week, it having been closed but a fortnight.

Our little station is quite lively at train time, many visitors arriving, who disperse quietly to the inviting farms in and about Lee.

The meetings held in the Layn district school house Sunday evenings draw out a crowd, there being ninety or more in regular attendance.

August 22, 1891:

The dance at the town hall was a "good one" and "the boys" will try another before long. A "good one" we are informed means "high toned patrons," and just enough of a crowd.

August 22, 1891 (continued):

A young man, who wishes his name withheld, was digging potatoes from the ground with his hands and feeling something he took to be an immense rotten potatoe, he let go—and found to his horror that it was a ground adder, down there eating potatoes. (A regular Celtic it was.) They say the said young man's face would have passed for a ghost's.

Tuesday morning a barge load of excursionists from Wadley's Falls on their way to Pawtuckaway pond were upset in Nottingham by the driver turning out one side of the road too far. Fortunately no one was injured—only their dinners got an extra shaking up. The barge, belonging to Walter Thurston, was somewhat broken. The party had their day out, however, and came home in jubilant spirits, judging from the music of their voices as they passed us on their way home.

A reminder that the Lee Heritage Commission has 2 new publications out this summer and available for purchase at both the Lee Town Hall and the Lee Public Library: The Land in Our Hands by Martha Lamson Butterfield and a reprint of Down the Mast Road by John M. Duncan.

LEE HISTORICAL SOCIETY MUSEUM
OPEN THIS SATURDAY 10 AM – 2 PM

Stop by to learn about Lee from its many exhibits or just to see what toys and gadgets your grandparents and great-grandparents used. If you are filling out your Passport to Lee, this is a good time to get stamps on several pages. Has your family lived in Lee for several generations? We have many family files with genealogy information. We also love to hear your stories.

THE LIBRARY TRUSTEES' CORNER

The Trustees would like to thank those who attended the Listening Session on Wednesday night to discuss options for the Lee Public Library.

If you were unable to attend the Listening Session to discuss options for the Library, you can still take the survey <https://surveyplanet.com/575b254eae4716c05943027d>. This survey will remain on-line until mid-September. We need to hear from you – let us know what you think. Paper copies of the survey are available at the Library. THANK YOU!!

COME WALK WITH THE CONSERVATION COMMISSION
EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING IN LEE!

Residents are invited to join members of the Conservation Commission on Wednesday mornings from now until early fall while they conduct site walks on the Town's conserved properties. Some of these lands are owned by the Town, but most of them are privately owned and protected in perpetuity with a conservation easement. If you'd like to participate, call the Town Secretary, Denise Duval, at 659-5414. We meet in the Town Hall parking lot at 8:45 am, dressed for walking in the woods. Standard precautions for ticks & mosquitoes are advised. Walks take 1½-2 hrs.
