The company's US division said in a news release that there have been 26 cases of suspected malfunctions but no deaths. Patients have described symptoms of "underlying hypersensitivity reaction," Sanofi said. "We're doing this voluntary recall as a precaution," said Dr. Paul Chew, global chief medical officer for Sanofi, "and we have temporarily stopped manufacturing." Chew advised people who have one of the recalled epinephrine injectors to call their doctors and get a prescription for a different auto-injector. Customers can call 1-866-726-6340 to get information on how to return their Auvi-Q and get a refund. The website is www.Auvi-Q.com.

HISTORY OF THE CONCORD COACHES

Tuesday, November 10TH, 7:00 pm Public Safety Complex

The Lee Historical Society and the Library presents a program by C. Peter James, Treasurer and Educator for the Albert-Downing Historical Society of Concord, formerly known as The Concord Coach Society. The mission of the Society is to educate people about the significance of the Concord Coach and its relationship to our history and lives today. Mr. James will talk about the beautifully crafted coaches that, at one time, took travelers through Lee and other communities. There were many stops along the way, most at taverns still standing today as private homes. A total of 1,700 or so coaches were built between 1826 and 1899. Only 157 remain today, with 18 of those in New Hampshire. The program is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served at the end of the program.
