McGregor EMS Wants To Alert All Residents Of The Following Epi Pen Recall

(CNN) Pharmaceutical company Sanofi has recalled its Auvi-Q epinephrine auto-injectors, saying they potentially could deliver the wrong-sized dose. The company's US division said in a news release that there have been 26 cases of suspected malfunctions but no deaths. Patients have described symptoms of "underlying hypersensitivity reaction," Sanofi said. "We're doing this voluntary recall as a precaution," said Dr. Paul Chew, global chief medical officer for Sanofi, "and we have temporarily stopped manufacturing." Chew advised people who have one of the recalled epinephrine injectors to call their doctors and get a prescription for a different auto-injector. Customers can call 1-866-726-6340 to get information on how to return their Auvi-Q and get a refund. The website is www.Auvi-Q.com.

HISTORY OF THE CONCORD COACHES

Tuesday, November 10TH, 7:00 pm Public Safety Complex

The Lee Historical Society and the Library presents a program by C. Peter James, Treasurer and Educator for the Albert-Downing Historical Society of Concord, formerly known as The Concord Coach Society. The mission of the Society is to educate people about the significance of the Concord Coach and its relationship to our history and lives today. Mr. James will talk about the beautifully crafted coaches that, at one time, took travelers through Lee and other communities. There were many stops along the way, most at taverns still standing today as private homes. A total of 1,700 or so coaches were built between 1826 and 1899. Only 157 remain today, with 18 of those in New Hampshire. The program is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served at the end of the program.

SELECTMEN'S OFFICE WILL BE CLOSED ON

LIKE US ON FACEBOOK!

The Lee Heritage Commission is looking for family photos and documents related to people and events in the Town of Lee. Let us help you scan your treasured family photos or documents. You keep the originals and LHC will place copies of the scanned photos & documents into our electronic archives.

The LHC is also working with the Lee Municipal Records Committee to create a new records management system for the Town of Lee. When non-confidential records no longer need to be retained by the Town, some of them will be made available to the LHC so that physical and/or digital copies can be placed in the Lee archives and made available for those doing historical or family history research.

Contact Denis Hambucken at dhambucken@comcast.com or Denise Duval at dduval@leenh.org for more information.

OIL & WATER: LEGENDS OF GRASSROOTS ACTION

Tuesday, November 17th 6:30 pm

Millspace, Newmarket

You may or may not have heard that in 1973 Olympic Oil wanted to build what would have been the world's largest oil refinery ON DURHAM POINT ROAD! Thanks to some dedicated hard work by Save Our Shores and the journalism of Publick Occurrences, coupled with well-placed legislation for Home Rule, the threat was defeated. The program will be moderated by Virginia Prescott of NHPR's Word Of Mouth and Nancy Sandberg, Sharon Meeker and Dudley Dudley will share some of the tactics used by both sides in this epic event. The work that these great ladies did in the 1970's is applicable to many grassroots efforts underway today. Jerry Monkman will be there with a clip from his film "The Power of Place" <http://ecophotography.com/the-power-of-place/> as well as Alex Freid <http://www.postlandfill.org/unht2t/> who organized the UNH Trash to Treasure event which is now spreading to other campuses across the country. LRWA and the New England Grassroots Environment Fund are co-hosting. Register for this event at <http://grassrootsfund.org/tools/events/oil-water-legends-of-grassroots-action>.
