I asked her why she waited a year before wanting to claim it and she told me recently found the title. I told her to send a letter to the business care of the ex-boyfriends father and request a response about the vehicle. I advised her the matter is a civil matter.

Upon arrival, I checked the area and GRANT had departed. I spoke with KEMP who thought it was odd that GRANT had arrived after ending the relationship several months ago. KEMP elected not to have GRANT issued with a trespass notice. GRANT arrived back on scene and appropriate checks were performed. He wasn't specifically requesting a civil stand-by however, he was advising that the property issue was handled in court yesterday, and where Susan Blake is sick today, he will be retrieving her property. I advised him that if the Police Department gets involved we will need to see a court order allowing him into the residence. He stated that his only concern was that Robert Brown will be the only one at the residence and might cause a problem. Ultimately, Keeler was just letting the Police Department know that he will be over there at 1000hrs and didn't need a civil stand-by.
